STAR BOARDER HER WATCHDOG.

Young Fisher Arrested While Guarding Mrs. Rhoder's Home.

From boarder to watchdog is the metamorphosis of Frank E. Fisher, a young chemist who lives in the house of Mrs. Emma Rhoder at 708 Lexington avenue. Mr. Rhoder is not stopping there now and there is no feeling between the two men.

Policeman Sullivan saw Fisher hanging about the basement entrance late last night, and finding he was armed with a revolver arrested him.

In the Yorkville Police Court this morning Mrs. Rhoder, a plump little brunette, explained that Fisher was playing watchdog for her last night and not seeking her husband's blood. Her colored cook and man servant stood off to a ball leaving a wire arrangement of the basement door to pull the latch.

Mrs. Rhoder appealed to Fisher to arm himself and stand without to ward off burglars. Justice Flannery fined him $10 for carrying a concealed weapon.

GAVE $1 FOR FOUR BRICKS.

Walsh Bought Them for Use on a Man Who Called Him an A. P. A.

Bricks were quoted at 25 cents apiece. In choice single lot, for cash, around Twenty-fourth street and Third avenue last night. John Walsh, of 14 West 24th street, Brooklyn, created the demand. The commodity was scarce in the vicinity, but offerings were sufficient at the price to satisfy his immediate demand.

Mr. Walsh was enjoying a pleasant evening in the Hotel Victoria until some one about the cafe called him an A. P. A. With a wild whoop he bounded into Twenty-fourth street.

"I'll give a dollar bill for four bricks!" he shouted.

Thomas Hoffmann snatched up the bid and dashed down the street offering every wretch he met 5 cents for a brick-bat. He had four in a jiffy and not Walsh's money.

Walsh heaved two bricks through the windows of the Twenty-fourth street side of the cafe and was making for the Third avenue front to complete the job when Policeman Edwards arrested him.

TEDDY'S PATH WIFE'S ROAD.

Mrs. Roosevelt's Tour in Footsteps of Rough Riders.

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt and her sister, Miss Carow, started this morning for the camp-ground where the Governor, then Lieutenant-Colonel, gathered together his Rough Riders and the battle-fields where they won fame in a day.

The ladies passed the night at the house of Mrs. Douglas Robinson, Gov. Roosevelt's sister, 422 Madison avenue. They left on the 8.25 train this morning over the Pennsylvania Railroad.

They will stay for a day or two at Tampa and friends of the Governor there will show them the camp ground where the soldiers were trained and killed.

They will then take steamer for Havana, where they will be the guests of Governor-General and Mrs. Wood. Gen. Wood has promised to take them over the trail followed by the Rough Riders and to point out where Hamilton Fish was killed, where Roosevelt rode up the hill so fast that he found himself alone and had to ride back and get some of his panting foot followers; where the last desperate stand of the Spanish was made at the block-house on San Juan Hill, and other spots of more personal interest to the wife of Col. Roosevelt.

They will return after Easter.
